Only Ten Months Old, Albert Holmquist Can Do "Stunts" Which Would Put to Shame Gymnasium-Trained Boys.

JUGGLING A SCUTTLE OF COAL FAVORITE FEAT.

More than a Match in a Tussle with His Cousins, and His Mother Is Unequal to the Task of Handling Him.

Extraordinary Feats of Baby 10 Months Old.

Juggles scuttle of coal. Thrashes big boy cousin. Routs his girl cousin. Moves heavy pieces of furniture. Conquers his mother. Throws with accuracy Talks through megaphone.

Here is a bouncing Brooklyn baby of ten months who can hold his own with "three-year-old" in Greater New York. In fact, this baby is the wonder of all who have seen him.

He weighs thirty-five pounds and is wenty-eight inches tall, and he can put als four-year-old girl dousin and threeyear-old boy cousin "to sleep" in any stic encounter that ever starts over a dispute about his toys. This sturdy roungster is Albert Joseph Holmquist, he son of Charles E. Holmquist, of No. 2780 First street, Brooklyn.

The embryo pugilist can lift heavy reights, can carry a big chair across the room and can perform physical feats that would feare a child of seven.

Has Never Been Trained. The little fellow has never been trained with dumbbells or the accepted weights of the gymnast, but he has given proof of his strength by the manser in which he carries around household effects. His mother says if they move all she will have to do will be to set the baby to work.

It was through his startling ability to pick up heavy articles and throw hem around that the family first began o notice the child's unusual strength, sthough his great size has always been matter of comment. When Albert ras born he weighed just fifteen nds, and he has been growing ever ince with regularity. His mother is a frail little woman, who weighs only ainety-two pounds, and the boy is too much for her, she says, to handle. He mm "put her out" of the fight in short order when it comes to a dispute.

May Be a Second Sandow. The ten-month-old Brooklyn wonder an walk as well as a grown-up, and he has an abbreviated vocabulary consisting of several plainly spoken words md a lot that are not so intelligible. His chief pride is his strength, and his father says he is going to make a secand Sandow out of him if the child keeps on at the rate he has started.

We have never done a thing to make the baby strong. He has been raised just like any child, and I don't know where he gets his unusual development, although his father is a big man and Albert, the strong baby is a bright little fellow with blue eyes and blond hair. He is an innocent-looking boy, but take care woen it comes to a matter of strength. There isn't one of his cousins, who range from four years up to ten, who can compete with him when he starts to tussle.

One Favorite Stunt. Albert's favorite pastime is picking up a coal scuttle full of coal. Then, too. can throw with an accuracy of aim that is not only astonishing, but painful at times. The baby has a good disposition, but he is full of animal spirits and likes to be moving all the time. He has a fine chest expansion, and that his lungs are good is shown by the way he talks through a small megaphone.

Albert's father, who is not a rich man, says that as soon as he is able he wants to get a regular training appearatus and start out to make a "strong man" of ten-months-old baby. At present Albert, who looks like a child of three, isn't worrying about that. He is more interested in the coming of Santa Claus and the hopes that he will bring him some toys that he can throw around without breaking. that is not only astonishing, but pain-there is no surer way he can shed happiness around him than by filling and refilling his big haversack with the good things to eat and drink from the JAMES BUTLER stores as he goes along his joyous way, handing them out to his friends and well-wishers with all his old-time proverbial generosity.

When Merry Old Santa Claus Comes to Town Next Week

We have made great preparations for the visits of many thousands of "self-appointed Santa Claus" to our 138 Grocery Stores, and were never in better shape to give them a royal reception and furnish them with the best of supplies for the inner man, woman and child at the lowest possible prices. Your dollar bill will positively grow when you begin buying household supplies at any of our stores. It will go so much further than you had imagined. And then our stocks for the Holiday trade are fresh, full, ample and pure. Everything is new and the best of their kind that can be had for love or money. In pricing them we have shaved our usual small margin of profit still closer to the quick, because of the extra demands this Holiday season puts upon every pocketbook. That is how we help to give every customer a Merry Christmas and a Glad New Year. You will find no end of bargains for the next three days at all of our stores.

Complete Stock of Holiday Wines and Liquors at Prices Lower Than the Lowest.

If you would enjoy to the utmost the Merry Christmas and New Year's festivities, with its good-fellowship and renewals of old friendships, be sure to invite some of these international favorites to your hospitable board. Better company for you and your friends you cannot have. They will come at your bidding, and the price is exceedingly small. Here are some of our Hollday specials for the first three days of the week:—
